A LONG, LONG TIME AGO...

Civilization
 Holy Cross.

The Power To Defy Death.

Translation

A LONG, LONG TIME AGO...

There lived a Civilization of great power. They built a city, and within that city they built a palace. They held sacred the secrets of the Holy Cross, and understood the planar nature of reality. They ventured to the far shore and sought power from the spaces between.

As is usual, an alluring old power was discovered. Fossils of self, annealed visions of the future, entombed and cast into sarcophagi and buried. A lever in the canonical plane, a store of potential. Perhaps it is the fabled prize.

Upper Left

There lived a Civilization of great power. They built a city, and within that city they built a palace. They held sacred the secrets of the Holy Cross, and understood the planar nature of reality. They ventured to The Far Shore and sought power from the spaces between.

Lower Right

As is usual, an alluring old power was discovered. Fossils of self, annealed visions of the future, entombed and cast into sarcophagi and buried. A lever in the Canonical Plane, a store of potential. Perhaps it is the fabled prize, The Power To Defy Death.

Elaboration

The description for the associated Steam community item, "United," is "It looks like they're worshipping it. Maybe it was a source of power?"<sup>[1][2]</sup>
